-“Hey I wanted to see if we could get together and catch up? I want to show you something, and see if you’d be interested in a project I am doing over the next 90 days.”

-“Hey (man), I’m guessing you have seen some of the craziness on Facebook. Things are blowing up in our business! I thought about you because I’m guessing that like me, you are getting tired of trading your time for money, to fulfill someone else’s dreams. Would you be interested in learning a little about it?”

-“So, want to do a coffee date soon? What days work best for you?”

-“Lunch this week?”

-“Hey _____! You’ve been on my mind lately! I wanted to reach out to you about the amazing health and wellness journey I’ve been on this year. I’m having a get together at the North Bend Library on Sept 9th from 6-8 pm. It’s just an opportunity to learn about what I’ve been doing, and how it could potentially fit into your life as well. Great time to learn, ask questions and sample tasty products. Would you be interested in coming? I would love to share this with you!”

-Isa Peep: “Hey Dee, I hope all is well. I know previously you contemplated hearing about isa and all it has to offer. I am working on building a strong team of passionate, fun and motivated people and I’d love to get together with you to discuss what it can do for you”

-Hi! Was wondering if you would be interested in trying something new with me. Can you meet up tomorrow real quick?

-Hey Aaron, how are you? I know we have chatted before about my profession. I'm looking to take things to the next level in my business and I thought of you as someone who would be inspiring to others. Can you talk tomorrow at 10 am or 6 pm?

-Hey girl! I love all your pictures of your daughter on FB. I really think you would love to check out our mommy movement. Jump on this call tonight and listen to our mommies stories! Can you do a playdate tomorrow at the park?

To a close friend:

Hey girl, I just got off an amazing training call learning more about my company. We have to meet up and talk. You are the most ambitious and magnetic person I know. Together, we could rock this. Coffee tomorrow to plan out our dreams?
